Plane Crashes In Ocean; Only One Survivor

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — An Argentine airliner with 52 persons aboard crashed into the Atlantic Ocean Friday night, off the seaside resort of Mar del Plata. Only one survivor was found.

Almost four hours after the vacation flight crashed a man was found alive on the beach, his clothes burned or ripped off. All others on the two-engine plane apparently perished. Only three bodies were recovered in predawn darkness.

Searchers who were hampered by stormy waters said many of those in the plane presumably were trapped inside and drowned. Among those on the passenger list were Eduardo Braun Menéndez, one of Argentina's most famous scientists, and Dr. Jose Mazzara, another well-known scientist. There was no immediate confirmation that they actually had been aboard.

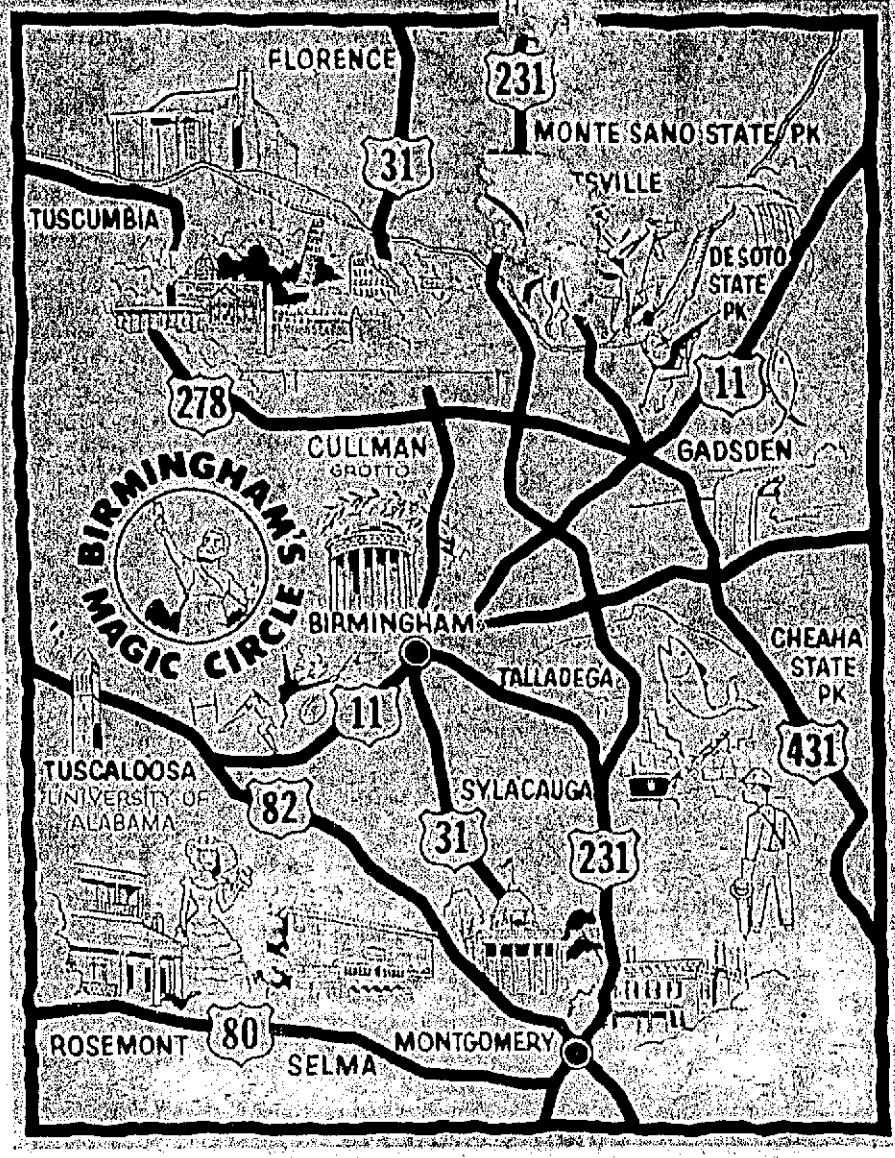

The plane belonged to Austral Airlines, a new company known throughout the country for its penguin trademark because of flights to Argentina's cold and bleak southland.

The airliner was on a special summertime vacation flight from Buenos Aires to Mar del Plata, 240 miles to the south, and then to Bahia Blanca, another 260 miles west.

It was coming in for a landing at Mar del Plata in windy and rainy weather when it smashed into the ocean about 150 yards from shore.

The airline said that it carried 7 passengers and a crew of five.

Tourist Surprised to Find Large Touch of Italian Art in Visit to Birmingham, Ala.

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of suggested highway tour maps which Hope Star will publish on a weekly basis. The series will cover the South and Southwest during the winter months, and the Northeast sections in the spring. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

By EDWARD COLLIER

If a trip to Italy's shores seems just a bit "blue sky" for your budget, then plan an "Italian Tour" around Alabama. Oddly enough, this American state offers an astounding number of Old-World attractions.

Start your Italian "Magic Circle" in Birmingham — largest city in the state. Although nearly 4,800 miles removed, this bustling metropolis definitely shows the touch of sunny Italy. The Museum of Art boasts a superb exhibit of Renaissance Paintings, including some of the best art of Venice. And when you walk through the door of this splendid gallery, you are transported magically to the city of lagoons and canals.

Mighty Vulcan

Next drive to Vulcan Park where spectacularly posed atop Red Mountain is Birmingham's famed Statue of Vulcan, portraying the blacksmith of Roman mythology — a 60-ton iron giant second in size only to the Statue of Liberty. Designed by the famed Italian sculptor, Giuseppe Moretti, the mighty mythical god was cast of Birmingham pig-iron in local foundries. Vulcan, with his torch-bearing hand high over the city, provides a magnificent view over this great steel making center of the South.

Continue through Homewood up Shades Mountain. On your left you'll see the sign "Vestaviv", this circular building is patterned after the Temple of Vesta in Rome. Inside you will see a huge mural of Vesta and her virgin priestesses and statues of her seven goddesses. The little observatory near the entrance of the lovely formal gardens is a miniature of the Temple Sibyl in Tivoli.

Next go north from Birmingham through woodlands (U. S. 31) to Cullman. Miraculously, you are in the heart of Italy, for on a land-scaped hillside of St. Bernard's College campus is Rome itself — in miniature. Here, clustered on a four-acre tract where a hillside has been hollowed out by a rock quarry, are hundreds of miniature replicas of the famous churches, shrines and tourist attractions of Rome. More than 100,000 visit this Ave Maria Grotto each year.

Beauty of Rome

Plan to spend at least two hours here, wandering through the flower-decked grounds and their miniature ponds and waterfalls, shadowed by huge flowering shrubs and 50-foot pines. The tiny reproductions are fashioned of concrete embellished with Alabama limestone, Florida seashells and bits of glass, jewels, tile and marble.

The Italian Group of replicas is dominated by a beautiful scale model of St. Peter's Church in Rome. The Colosseum is faithfully reproduced down to the last crumbling tier. And don't miss the Hillview Mary Monte Cassino Abbey, made famous in its destruction by Allied bombs in World War II. The Pantheon Roman Aqueduct, Calatombas

Castro Says 450 Will Be Executed

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro estimates that 450 persons will die before the current wave of executions ends in Cuba.

Already 205 persons have been reported shot on charges of crimes against the people during the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista. Cuban prisons recently held an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 more for trial on similar charges but some have been released and others given jail terms.

Castro gave his estimate to a crowd of about 10,000 in front of the presidential palace Friday night. He called for a rally of half a million persons in Havana next Wednesday to signify approval of the executions.

The Cuban people generally have applauded the trials and executions. Police broke up 200 persons in front of a police station Friday demonstrating for lynching of one suspect.

The actions have aroused sharp criticism in the United States and other countries, however. Castro invited foreign newsmen and diplomats to attend the trials to check their fairness.

Newspapers in Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, Argentina and Costa Rica have called for a halt to the bloodshed. The Uruguayan representative to the United Nations appealed to Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to stop the killings. Other Latin-American delegates at the U.N. reportedly are planning a similar appeal. U.S. Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) suggested in Washington that Castro invite U.N. observers to check the trial and execution methods.

Some U.S. and Cuban businessmen and industrialists are paying advance taxes to help the revolutionary government, the New York Times reported. A dispatch from Havana said a treasury official estimated about three million dollars had been paid in advance in recent days.

It was reported in Washington that career diplomat Philip A. Bonsal, presently U.S. ambassador to Bolivia, will be the new American ambassador.

Ike Ready to Save Budget With His Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today was reported ready to make forceful use of his veto power if necessary to maintain the scant surplus in the 77-billion-dollar budget he will send to Congress Monday.

The message for fiscal 1960, which starts July 1, is expected to urge bipartisan support for an anti-inflationary squeeze on federal spending and closing of tax loopholes.

Eisenhower's target, administration sources have hinted, is to cut outlays to a level slightly above 77 billion dollars. It is hoped that revenues will exceed that amount, although the margin may be only 100 million dollars or less.

There will also be some bad fiscal news in the message, officials conceded — a slightly higher deficit than was anticipated for the current budget year.

Spending this year is expected to mount fairly close to 81 billion dollars, instead of the $79,200,000,000 estimated officially in September. Much of the increase is attributed to the proposed $1,400,000,000 increase in this country's subscription to the International Monetary Fund, which Eisenhower recommended last week.

Revenues will have risen to more than 68 billion dollars instead of the 67 billion officially predicted. But when the government year ends next June 30 the deficit reportedly will exceed by several hundred million dollars the earlier estimate of $12,200,000,000.

Officials said mounting concern over the depreciation of the dollar, coupled with concern lest this country eventually price itself out of world markets, has reinforced the administration's decision to make a strong stand against deficit financing.

Administration aides suggested Eisenhower will use the carrot and club technique to win cooperation from the Democratic Congress.

He dangled the carrot in his State of the Union message — the hope that some tax relief may be possible in fiscal 1961 if the budget line is held in 1960.

The White House was represented as believing it will have support in the economy campaign from the leadership of both parties in Congress. The two Texas Democrats, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn frequently have taken a conservative line on fiscal issues when some of their fellow party members have been urging new spending programs.

To Rule on Lending of State Money

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court will be asked to rule whether a state agency has the right to loan money to private industry.

That's the outcome of a suit filed yesterday in Pulaski Chancery Court by Frederick C. Anderson, a Little Rock resident.

Anderson's suit challenges the right of the First Arkansas Development Finance Corp. to loan $130,000 to the Scott County Industrial Development Corp. for assistance to the Scott County Milling Co. The milling company is near Waldron.

The suit alleged that the 1957 law which set up the corporation was unconstitutional.

In successive steps the defendant filed answer to the suit, Chancellor Guy E. Williams upheld the 1957 law and Anderson filed notice of appeal to the state Supreme Court.

Castro Acting Like Another Dictator Now

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro, in power in Cuba only 16 days, is already in a shouting match with the United States although his revolutionary government was given speedy diplomatic recognition by this country.

Castro's long fight against the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista reached its climax Jan. 1 when Batista fled. Castro's announced purpose in overthrowing Batista was to restore democracy to Cuba.

What he has actually imposed — at least temporarily — is another dictatorship. His government has dismissed Congress and announced it will rule by decree for 18 months, after which elections can be held.

No observer in Washington can say whether such delay is justified or not.

But Castro's tactics since his victory — in approving mass execution by firing squads of Batista followers and in his violent attacks on the United States — raise questions.

Was his long fight against Batista simply that of a patriotic but emotional man who lacked the vision to plan long-range for orderly government? Or was he practical enough to do such planning?

His angry outbursts against the United States seemed prompted by American criticism of the mass executions.

He repeated charges — quickly denied by the State Department — that the United States provided arms and aid to Batista's defeated forces.

Young Girl May Save Mother's Life

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A 16-year-old girl boarded an airliner here today on a mission she doesn't understand in behalf of a woman she can't remember.

Donna Marie Noe, 3, may be the spark that can renew the strength and save the life of a woman in Boston. The woman is her mother, Mrs. Lois Noe, 26.

Mrs. Noe is to undergo brain surgery soon at Boston General Hospital. She has asked to see Donna Marie.

Sixteen months ago, her estranged husband, Albert Noe, 30, took Donna Marie, presumably for a weekend. The father and daughter vanished. Mrs. Noe's mother, Mrs. Vanish Crowell, 50, said her daughter didn't locate them until earlier this month, when she learned Albert had moved here and left the child with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Noe.

Mrs. Crowell flew here with two airline tickets to Boston and a court order directing that Donna be returned to her mother's custody.

Sinclair Oil Offers 5% Wage Increase

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sinclair Oil Co. offered a five per cent wage increase Thursday night in an attempt to settle an 11-month-old dispute with the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

Unless agreement on a new contract is reached before midnight Saturday, there is a possibility of widespread strikes in the oil industry.

B. J. Schafer, vice president of the OCAW, disclosed the company offer. Sinclair negotiators had no comment.

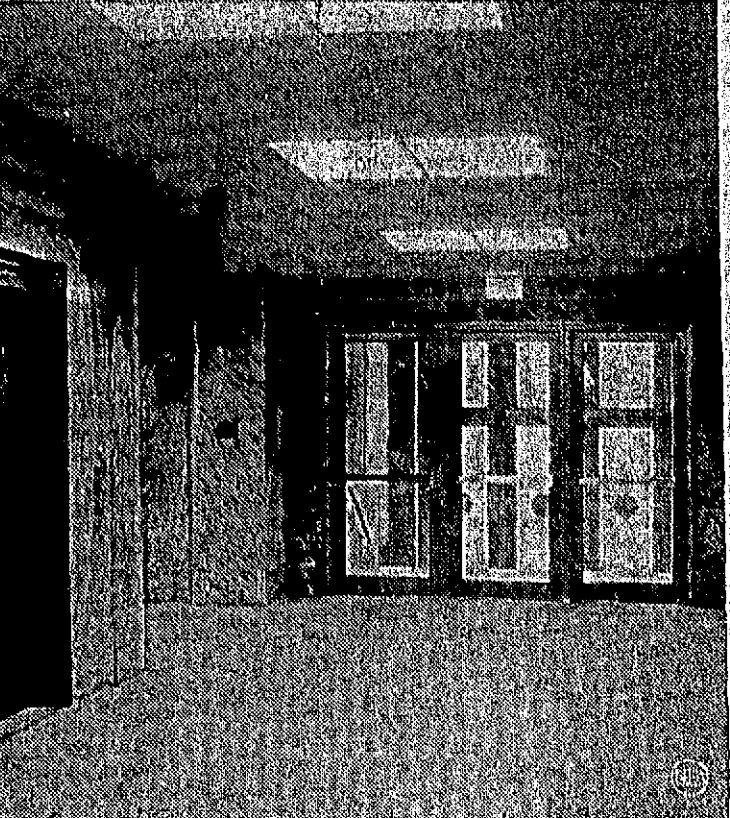

Schafer said negotiations will continue while the union policy committee is polled by telephone. Sinclair's proposal amounts to 13 1/2 cents an hour. The union has asked an hourly increase of 25 cents. Union members now earn an average of $2.71 an hour.

The wage offer was the first made by Sinclair since negotiations began last February. A Sinclair officer had said that Sinclair didn't justify a wage boost.

Negotiations collapsed last Nov. 21 and were resumed last Monday at the request of mediators.

Strike notices filed against Sinclair and most of 600 other oil plants with which the OCAW has contracts, expire at midnight Saturday.

ENTRANCE—The plush new Senate Office Building in Washington has entrances like the one above. Forty lucky senators and Vice President Nixon will move in shortly when the building is ready for occupancy. Covering half a city block, the building houses a senatorial dining room together with a 700-person capacity cafeteria for staff members and visitors.

Doesn't Worry Over Weather With an Indoor Garden

By MARY ANITA LASETER (Hope Star Photo Engraving)

With the varied extremes of weather which Southwest Arkansas has experienced lately, it isn't surprising that an outdoor garden is anything but a thing of beauty these days.

Mrs. John H. Arnold does not have that worry which weather brings, for hers is an indoor garden of African violets. She has about 100 different varieties of which some 50 kinds are in bloom at the present time.

This writer had no idea there were so many varieties of this pretty, little flower until the splendor of Mrs. Arnold's collection was designated as "only some of a large number of types." Actually, there are many hundreds of kinds of African violets, and more are being constantly developed.

And the names they possess are as charming as the flowers themselves! For instance, in this particular collection, the many "white violets" include the large "Thunberg," the small, clustered "Sweet 16," and the ever popular "White Madonna."

Names like "Pink Cushion," "Black Magic," and "Blue Eyes" are self-descriptive. What was the first of these violets from Africa to be introduced in this country? "Blue Boy," which is the most familiar to the general public, was brought there in comparatively recent years and was the first of the African violets in America.

Mrs. Arnold didn't have to secure her first violets from as great a distance as Africa, though. In fact, she did not have to leave the state, for the African violets at Springdale, Ark., are widely known as outstanding examples of flower culture.

Since she began her collection, flowers have been secured from many sources, with New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan being the farthest places which they have been obtained. When asked which was her favorite of them all, Mrs. Arnold said that she had none she would really call her very favorite because they were like people. There was something individual about each one, and each seemed to have a personality that endeared itself to her.

It is true that the blooms of each variety are different, but in many cases so are the leaves. This foliage is sometimes smooth or waxy, cuply or very large. Like the two-toned flowers, the foliage can be in two colors, too. Whereas the largest of Mrs. Arnold's violets measures 1 1/4 inches in diameter, another of her flower children has leaves which are several inches wide. Either the blooms or the leaves may look "frosted," which adds to their beauty.

The White House was represented as believing it will have support in the economy campaign from the leadership of both parties in Congress. The two Texas Democrats, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn frequently have taken a conservative line on fiscal issues when some of their fellow party members have been urging new spending programs.

Russian Envoy Confers With President

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Anastas Mikoyan reached the climax of his spectacular American tour today — a conference with President Eisenhower.

If the Soviet deputy premier brought any surprise proposal from Premier Nikita Khrushchev, such as an outright bid for a summit meeting or a concession on German issues, U.S. officials agreed this was his moment to spring it.

On the U.S. side in the conference along with the President were Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, envoy to Moscow, and Livingston T. Merchant, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Invited to the White House with Mikoyan were Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and Mikoyan's interpreter, Oleg Troyanovsky.

Mikoyan spent most of Friday, except for a luncheon with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in conference with Dulles and other top State Department officials. They covered among other subjects the Soviet Union's effort to oust the Western powers from Berlin and create a "free city" of West Berlin; U.S. policy on German reunification and Soviet proposals for a "German peace treaty" and disarmament issues.

One of the main things Eisenhower wanted to find out from Mikoyan was whether the Soviet government was seriously interested in trying to reach agreements with the West on such major world issues as the division of Germany and measures to bring the nuclear arms race under control.

Only three days ago Eisenhower told reporters at the National Press Club the most that would be expected from Mikoyan's informal visit "would be that we would try to get behind each other's facial expressions to see what we're really thinking."

If Dulles and his aides succeeded in getting behind the 63-year-old Mikoyan's sometimes smiling, sometimes glum countenance in about five hours of meetings Friday, there was no official word to prove it. On the contrary, such private indications as were available from qualified sources indicated that during all this talk Mikoyan had not come up with the hoped-for but hardly expected indications of acceptable compromise on critical German questions.

Home Ground, Fruits to Be Discussed

A series of demonstrations pertaining to home grounds and home fruits will be given at the Southwest Branch Experiment Station east of Hope on Tuesday afternoon, January 20, announced Extension Agent Oliver L. Alama. The demonstrations are timed so that interested individuals may participate only in part of the program desired.

The schedule of events for Tuesday afternoon is as follows:
1:00 p. m. — Observe properly pruned, trellis, and winter cover crops for muscadines. The methods are necessary for long life in heavy bearing vineyards. The job was started five years back with the young vines.

1:30 p. m. — Control of pine lim moth injury to pine: selecting, mixing and applying spray and when to apply.

2:00 p. m. — How to plant and prune an evergreen shrub. Insect control on shrubs.

2:30 p. m. — Fertilizing and management of the lawn. How to make a soil test for plant food needs. How to select and apply fertilizer. How to apply 2,4-D for weed control.

Pair Charged in Supermarket Holdup

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A man and woman arrested minutes after $3,700 was taken from a supermarket here Monday night have been charged with robbery. The two were identified as John S. Kessler, 41, of Hinesville, Ga., and Junatta Craig, 45, of St. Louis.

There is nothing more annoying than to ask somebody how he feels and then have him tell you.

Pair Indicted on Charge of Fake Holdup

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a young couple on embezzlement charges in connection with a fake holdup here recently, it was announced today.

Named in the indictments are Miss Della Foshee, 20, a former messenger for the Arkansas National Bank here, and Bobby Ray Phillips, 21, her boy friend. Both are of Hot Springs.

Each was charged with embezzlement in the disappearance of $368 in cash and $1,475 in checks last Nov. 17. Miss Foshee reported that two men forced her into an automobile as she was making bank deliveries and took the money from her.

The next day Phillips was arrested while spending a $20 bill at a store. Miss Foshee was arrested the same day and they told police they had faked the holdup.

Most of the cash was recovered but the checks were destroyed.

The grand jury also indicted the pair in connection with the loss of $500 from a teller's cage at the bank Nov. 5. The shortage was turned up during an investigation of the bogus robbery. Bank officials had written off the shortage as an auditing mistake.

Miss Foshee and Phillips are at liberty under $1,000 bonds. Trial is expected at the April term of the grand jury here.

Castro Acting

criticism, or just poor judgment may have been the root of these bitter attacks.

If the State Department seems in the light of Castro's present performance to have been hasty in granting him recognition, at least this country had been already made self-conscious about its dealings with Latin American dictators.

One of the reasons given last spring for the stoning and spitting inflicted on Vice President Richard M. Nixon during his Latin American tour was the complaint this country had played much too cozy with Latin American dictators.

In August President Eisenhower sent his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, to Latin America to look over the situation and report on how this country could improve its relations.

Dr. Eisenhower took months preparing that report. He sent it to the President, Dec. 27, just a few days before Castro threw out Batista.

Among other things Dr. Eisenhower urged a stiffer policy toward Latin American dictators by suggesting that while the United States should embrace democratic regimes it should give dictators only "a formal handshake."

On Jan. 7, six days after Batista fled, the United States gave Castro's provisional government recognition.

This fast action may come under questioning in Congress—particularly if relations with Castro grow worse—since it was taken before there was full time to see how the Castro wind blew.

Doesn't Worry

Quite often new plants are rooted from the leaf of another which has been placed in water, sand, soil, or vermiculite (ground mica). As a rule, plants seem to do better in sterile soils, so Mrs. Arnold bakes the soil before using it. (These "grown-up dirties" produce beautiful plants, too.)

Another problem, which anyone who raises African violets always has, is never to get them too wet but also never let the roots get too dry. Admittedly, that is a problem solved only by the trial-and-error method. A helpful hint or two for the beginner is to use rain water for the violets and to keep them in small pots. As they increase in size, divide them.

It seemed a little strange, at first, to see Mrs. Arnold's collection resting in shallow trays of water. Then it was pointed out that the flowers were not receiving any of the water. It was there merely to create humidity for these tropical plants. Fluorescent lights are used for more constant light than sun can provide.

This fine collection of African violets in double or single blooms of blue, pink, white, lavender, purple, and red show how a person can bring June to a home in January.

More Italian Influence

Continue west (U.S. 278) to Doubie Springs where you watch for signs to Alabama's Natural Bridge, a rock phenomenon whose perfect arch of sandstone rises 82 feet above the bottom of the canyon.

To the north is Florence, broad-avenued, tree-shaded monument to its Italian designer and at nearby Tusculum is Helen Keller's birthplace, the tiny Ivy Green cottage once part of a huge plantation.

From Florence, State 2 leads to Huntsville and picturesque Monte Sano (Mountain of Health). State 2, But for even more spectacular scenery, continue to Fort Payne and DeSoto State Park atop Lookout Mountain. Here is an incredible vista of wild flower beauty and rugged mountains, with the largest gorge east of the Rockies—Little River Canyon and its 120-foot mountain top waterfall.

Skyline Beauty

Leaving this area, you drive south through Anniston to Talladega, center of the Talladega National Forest. Arden, Northeast of the city, Cheaha State Park and Skyway Motorway, an 80-mile drive along the crest of the mountain. Your camera will find good use as you climb the stone observation tower on Cheaha Mountain, highest point in the state.

Talladega and nearby Sylacauga, southern end of the Skyway Motorway have some of the finest marble quarries in the world. You are welcome to watch these operations from which come "Finest White Marble in the World," and used for such buildings as the Lincoln Memorial, U.S. Supreme Court in Washington and the Al Jolson Shrine.

Another Magic Circle lies south of Birmingham, via U.S. 11 to Tuscaloosa, home of the University of Alabama and one of the great centers of learning and collegiate football in the South. Dominating its campus are the stately Denny Chimes, friendly reminder of a president who in the early days of the school knew each student personally and by name.

Indian Attraction

Sixteen miles south is historic Mound State Park. The archeological museum there always is thronged with visiting classes and those interested in the life of ancient Indians.

From Moundville, you can toss a coin to decide what you'll see next. It's time isn't any problem, motor down to Greensboro to view the magnificent Magnolia Grove, floral fairland and ancestral home of a Spanish-American War hero. Or, drive over to Etowah and see Rosemont, the "Grand Mansion" of Alabama. Or your choice can be the historic near-Demopolis, a pretentious plantation home where the old bell has been rung every noon for more than a century.

Save a sunny day for sightseeing in Montgomery, the state capital. Under a Southern sun, the domed capitol on Goat Hill glimmers in white splendor. Patterned after the National Capitol, it ranks among the most beautiful of the Greek Revival capitols.

Other highlights: The First White House of the Confederacy with its lovely furniture which originally belonged to President and Mrs. Jefferson Davis. On your circle back north to Birmingham (U.S. 31) be sure and stop at Pettitville, the 15-acre deer ranch. Started years ago as a personal hobby, it is used to raise deer for zoos and parks.

New Kansas Attraction

Worthy of stopping off the new high-speed Kansas Turnpike is a visit to the beautiful University of Kansas campus at Lawrence. Top attraction now is the panorama of North American mammals at the University's Dyche Museum of Natural History, which has been reopened for public viewing after several years of work.

A panorama 550 feet long and 15 to 90 feet high on the first floor contains five life-like displays of the mammals in authentic settings. An electronic eye activates when you enter, turning on a soft light, and a recording to explain the exhibits.

The hostess served a dessert course at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Davis Cathey Addresses Rotary Club

At a regular luncheon of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the Broadway Hotel, Mrs. Ruth Davis Cathey delivered the address. Dutchie Bright had charge of the program and was assisted by J. T. McGee, George Tanner, C. C. McGee and Miss Sarah Jane McGill. Mrs. McGee introduced Mrs. Ruth Davis Cathey the speaker.

Mrs. Cathey spent some time in Denmark as an International Foreign Youth Exchange Student. This exchange is promoted by the Department of Agriculture. Mrs. Cathey devoted some time telling of her observation and experiences while in Denmark visiting at the home of farm families there. Her talk was informative and was well received by the Rotarians. In the exchange of foreign youths in this country, she said, there is a better understanding and better relationship with other nations.

Alford Gets First Committee Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Dale Alford of Little Rock, a segregationist who defeated regular Democratic nominee Brooks Hays in Arkansas' general election, was named to a Democratic committee post today.

The action erased any doubts over Alford's status as a Democrat.

His status had been questioned by Rep. John Blainie (D-Miss.) Blainie argued that since Alford ran as an independent candidate he ought to be denied Democratic status in Congress.

Alford was named to a Democratic seat on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

He was appointed by the Democratic Committee on Committees, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.).

Baptist High Also Is Accredited

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Baptist High School received state accreditation yesterday and became eligible for state funds along with Raney High, but Baptist officials said they did not plan to ask for the money.

Both schools, set up for students left without classes by Gov. Orval E. Faubus' school closing order received top ratings from the state Education Department.

Officials of Raney High, accredited earlier in the week, indicated they would ask for state aid. Accredited schools are eligible for state funds under an anti-integration law passed by a special legislative session last summer.

Raney High has about 800 students, Baptist High about 368. Two other private schools, Trinity Interim Academy with 24 students and Anthony School with 40, have applied for state accreditation.

Small Device Can Produce Electricity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has achieved a significant breakthrough in development of a small atomic device for production of electricity.

The White House announced the spectacular development, termed a major achievement by Atomic Energy Commission officials.

Newsmen were told of it after President Eisenhower had conferred with John A. McCone, the AEC chairman.

AEC officials, displaying a model at a news conference, said the device is capable of powering the instruments in a satellite, for example, for at least a year. They said it would take 1,450 pounds of batteries to produce the electrical energy the new device can power without batteries. The device generates heat, using a radio isotope—polonium in this case—and has no moving parts.

The device so far has been tested only on the ground. But AEC officials made it clear that it could be put into satellites shortly. They said it also has other potential uses, such as in the field of navigation aids.

Comparing the device with present means of electrical power development, AEC officials said the 4½-ton Atlas which this country recently put into orbit around the earth carried 20 pounds of batteries which lasted only 48 days. The officials said the new device, in contrast, could generate power for at least a year.

The test model displayed at the White House weighs five pounds. Col. Jack Armstrong, deputy chief of the AEC's aircraft reactor division, said the weight of the new power unit can be cut to about three pounds.

The model cost $15,000—exclusive of the fuel—to produce. Armstrong said that on a bigger production basis the cost could be cut to about $200 for each unit.

In reply to questions, the AEC officials said they believe Russia also has developed a lightweight power generator, but based probably on a different principle.

Bandits Grab Pie Instead of Payroll

NEW YORK (AP)—Two bandits got their just dessert Thursday. They grabbed a cardboard box thinking it was a $3,000 payroll. Instead it contained a custard pie. Police, cruising the Henry Hudson Parkway spotted a car driving up to the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. garage with the payroll. En route from the bank they had picked up the pie.

They were accosted by two armed men. One, thug slugged Rayster with a rubber hose. The other grabbed the box. The bandits, cruising the Henry Hudson Parkway spotted a car driving up to the Fifth Avenue Coach Co. garage with the payroll. En route from the bank they had picked up the pie.

DOROTHY DIX

Precocious at 13; She Pays Up at 15

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I entered high school at 15 very confident of myself and anxious to enjoy every social advance that came along. I began dating right away and one of my dates was a boy with a bad reputation. I ignored the gossip about him and, continuing in my self-confidence, was sure I could handle any situation. Of course I couldn't. The boy was seriously involved with the law and the stories about me, although completely untrue, gathered momentum. I soon found that the only boys interested in me were a few older ones who only wanted my cooperation. They simply weren't convinced by the "I'm not that kind of girl" plea.

I'm only 15 now but have been playing the field so long that I'm bored with boys. Of course, I grew up too fast, physically, mentally and emotionally, but I can't help that. I've met only one boy who really interests me but I think he's heard some of the tales that are still circulating and he meets only at school dances. My parents realize my difficulties and they think I should be dating one boy instead of many.—Shella

Dear Shella: Your letter, which I had to condense, was exceptionally well written for a girl of 15, so I can well believe that you are mentally beyond your years. You are probably bored with school work, as well as friends. You have no challenge to meet scholastically or socially. Since your parents understand your difficulties I suggest that they consider a boarding school for you, pointing a scholastic achievement where your mental abilities will be satisfied. Pick the school you want to follow, work toward preparing for it. There's a definite need for intelligent women. Use your energy for studying and let dating worries rest for a while. The important thing is to change your environment which is doing you no good at all. If you'd like further information on educational requirements, institutions, or vocations, write me again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My best friend is a girl I've

Except The LORD Build The HOUSE They Labor In Vain That Build It

My Plight

Could it be the accident of birth that 'caved-in' her world? Does God discriminate between His people?

Could it be that her home located 'across-the-track' determines her plight??? An empty bowl, sure, but a compassionate heart. Almost despondent that's what she is. If you are one of those who has plenty and haven't yet given...

then, maybe you are partially responsible for the situation we find here. God may take from your store-house the 'just' amount. He said, inasmuch as you have done it to the least of one of these little ones, so have you done it to me. Her plight may be our responsibility. May we see that she has the opportunity to attend church regularly for we are, our brother's keeper.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

This Series of Church Ads Is Being Published Through the Cooperation of Local Ministers and Is Sponsored By The Undersigned Individuals and Business Institutions
